

NEW DAY

by Oscar Treadwell

Just before the sun appears Capella bids adieu,
A wink assures return
as a leaf shakes off it's dew.

The pond, still as a mirror,
(the moon lets go it's grip)
ripples with gesticulating cant to brush the shore line tip.

Capella: Star of the first magnitude.